How did the Fund perform last year and what affected its performance?

During the period 8/1/25 through 7/31/26, the Fund returned 9.47%, outperforming its benchmark by 3.17%, on a 1-year annualized basis, due to longer duration exposure and strong security selection.

In addition to strong security selection, the fund benefited from municipal yields flattening during the period with 10-year yields higher by 12 bps, from 3.18% to 3.30%, while the 30-year bond tightened by 12 bps going from 4.57% to 4.46%. There was also significant outperformance attributable to muni/treasury ratio's tightening from 95% to 85% over the period.

The market outlook remains constructive for municipals, especially high yield, with the Fund's twelve month distribution yield at 5.30%. The Fund continues to pursue yield-driven total return using a bottom-up, credit-intensive approach, recognizing that short-term volatility may occur, but yield is expected to drive long-term performance.
